

Cold-Blooded Oppressor

Kazuya Mishima

Using the full extent of his devil power and G Corporation, Kazuya Mishima went on a conquest for world domination. After defeating his father Heihachi Mishima, Kazuya intensifies his offensive to eliminate the leaderless Mishima Zaibatsu. This brutal war divided the world in two, and in the end G Corporation came out on top. However, G corporation showed no signs of relenting, and continued to dominate the world by force. The Union of Nations was appalled by these actions, and they gathered various world leaders in New York to discuss how to impose sanctions against G Corporation. But then, Kazuya himself showed up to the meeting and announced that he would continue to wage war. He then unleashed G Corporation's army on New York, setting the entire city ablaze.

Lightning of Fate

Jin Kazama

Despising the cursed blood that ran through his veins, Jin Kazama sought to bring an end to the devil bloodline. He joined forces with Lars Alexandersson, and together they prepared to commence Operation Lightning, a plan to eliminate the other bearer of the devil gene, Kazuya Mishima. Jin had once plunged the world into chaos in order to resurrect Azazel, the devil gene's progenitor. His plan was to permanently extinguish the devil gene by defeating Azazel once and for all, even if it cost him his own life. While Jin managed to defeat Azazel, he lost consciousness and fell into a deep sleep. During his absence, G Corporation, led by Kazuya, took over the world by force. Several months later, Jin finally regained consciousness. His deadly struggle with Azazel had taught him how to control his inner devil power. Jin swore to end Kazuya's reign of terror in order to atone for the war and destruction he had caused.

Marshall Law

Marshall Law is a renowned martial arts master and runs his own dojo. However, he fell into debt due to his son's motorcycle accident, and his efforts to repay this debt caused him to neglect the management of his dojo, resulting in a sharp drop-off of students coming to train. Law set out to find a distinguished master who could take over the dojo and solve all his troubles. Unfortunately, all negotiations ended in failure, and to make matters worse, his dojo was repossessed as collateral while he was gone. Now plunged into poverty, Law became bound by the concept of money making the world go round. His only hope was to make a killing at the next tournament and secure the prize money he so desperately needed. To increase his chances of success, he promised to split the winnings with his friend Paul Phoenix. Together, the pair journeyed to the mountains in order to train.

King

King is active on the pro wrestling circuit and also manages an orphanage on the side. The war between G Corporation and Mishima Zaibatsu has ravaged the world, causing an unprecedented swell in the number of children needing his help. King may be the undisputed champion of the wrestling world, but he will need to put on a spectacle far beyond the bright arena lights if he is to earn the funds required to help all those orphans. Anticipating the need for allies to help realize such aspirations, he set out to hone his body and wrestling skills in preparation of meeting such like-minded individuals.

Lars Alexandersson is Heihachi Mishima's illegitimate son and the leader of the rebel army fighting against G Corporation. A former officer of the Mishima Zaibatsu's special military unit known as the Tekken Force, Lars led a coup d'état against the Zaibatsu and took many of the Tekken Force personnel with him. Not long after the coup, the world fell under the control of G Corporation led by Kazuya Mishima. Lars formed a new rebel army called Yggdrasil and amassed enough military strength to launch a revolt against the tyrant. Lars even formed an alliance with his long-time enemy, Jin Kazama, and began preparations for Operation Lightning, a plan to take down Kazuya and bring peace to the world.

Jack-8

Jack-8 is the latest prototype in the Jack series, G Corporation's premier humanoid weapon. The developer assigned to the Jack-8, Jane, once had her life saved by Jack. She joined G Corporation and worked day and night to create her ideal Jack machine. While the Jack series was already well established within G Corporation's product line, Jane continued to devote herself to perfecting the Jack design. Her designs for the next-generation Jack included a vastly improved AI to that of the Jack-7 model, capable of learning with incredible speed and accuracy. She also sought to significantly increase Jack's firepower with heavy-duty special armaments and an electromagnetic pulse weapon known as the Gamma System. Amid the chaos caused by Kazuya and G Corporation's tightening grip over the world, the order finally came to deploy Jack-8 into battle...

Hwoarang

A Taekwondo master, Hwoarang has considered Jin Kazama as his rival ever since their first fight ended in a draw. About six months ago, he meets Jin again in the Middle East. The black-winged figure that stood before him was the same that had trounced him in an instant in a previous encounter. With all the strength he could muster, Hwoarang succeeded in defeating the rampaging Jin. However, due to the intervention of the Union of Nations forces, Jin disappears once again. "Victory was mine, but..." he said. Hwoarang was left feeling incontent at the unresolved conflict with Jin after returning home, so he threw himself into stoic training in order to find answers. He quietly looks inward and gradually arrives at the answer — what he wants, and what he must do to achieve it.

Obtaining the perpetual generator, Bryan Fury became the ultimate replicant, using this endless source of energy to wreak havoc. Even after the battle between G Corp. and Mishima Zaibatsu concluded, Bryan continued waging acts of war around the globe, and quickly became the target of international police organizations. Something suddenly changed in Bryan when he confronted the elite counter terrorist unit of the international police agency he formerly belonged to in an urban conflict. Either a result of overuse in countless conflicts, or from a lingering memory of his mortal body, his perpetual generator overheated during battle. A surge in feelings of power and pleasure burned their imprint into his brain, turning it crimson red. When he awoke, he was alone in the devastated aftermath he had likely caused. "Are you really the infamous Bryan Fury..?" From under the rubble, the voice of someone who appeared to know him said, but was abruptly interrupted by the sounds of pummeling fists and maniacal laughter.

Banisher of Demons

Claudio Serafino

Leader of the Sirius Marksmen, a group of exorcists who had banished evil in various forms since ancient times, Claudio Serafino was one of the most powerful exorcists in his organization. After learning from Heihachi Mishima six months earlier of Jin Kazama and Kazuya Mishima, and the power they command over the devil gene, Claudio decided to cooperate with Heihachi despite considerable opposition from within his own organization. Also, Claudio learned of the existence of Ling Xiaoyu who was searching for Jin. He decided to get close to Xiaoyu in order to use her in his mission to locate and defeat Jin. Born in to the house of the "purifying blue flame", Claudio took pride in his lineage, and was determined to defeat Devil at all cost. However, Claudio lost all credibility due to a certain incident in which Heihachi betrayed him, and dissolved their cooperative alliance. Many of the organization's members defected to save themselves, causing Claudio great distress. In this difficult time, Xiaoyu and her undying trust in Jin Kazama left a strong impression on him. Claudio, embarrassed by his actions up to that point, confessed everything to Xiaoyu and apologized. He promised to aid her in her quest to find Jin. However, if Jin were overcome by the influence of the Devil gene and betrayed Xiaoyu, Claudio would have no reservations about what he must do... Determined to do what he must, Claudio released one of the seals on his right arm. It was the forbidden exorcism arts that had been forbidden by his those before him, as its power consumes the lifeforce of its practitioner.

God Fist

Feng Wei

Feng Wei is a master of Taijiquan who, guided by the teachings of the God Fist scrolls, aims to become the perfect warrior who transcends all — the Dragon God. However, at the most recent King of Iron Fist Tournament, Feng suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of Wing Chun master Leroy Smith. "You will never reach the height of true martial arts with that heartless technique of yours. You are unworthy of even being compared to your master." The master to which Leroy refers is Wu Zhaoh, a martial artist who was known as the "God Fist" and under whose guidance Feng trained. In contrast to Feng, who believes that true martial arts reside in pure and unyielding power, his master Wu Zhaoh had always preached that it is essential for one's heart to be in line with one's technique. Whose belief holds the truth? Feng thought he had found the answer on the stormy night he killed his own master...yet his fight with Leroy seemed to say otherwise. (Wing Chun as a martial art is nearly invulnerable. Users turn their opponents' own power against them to control them. Even still, if one can just break through their defenses with overwhelming power, then...) Feng uses his rage as fuel for his training, and travels to every corner of the globe, destroying masters who excel in self-defense as he grows even more powerful. Six months pass, and Nina Williams visits Feng with a proposal: she promises him that if he lends his support to G Corp, they will provide him with an opportunity to avenge himself against Leroy. Although he knows that such an offer means he will become an accomplice to G Corp, Feng gives his assent. Feng scoffs at the ridiculous concept of "heart" that his dead master and Leroy value so much, continuing down the path he must take to become the Dragon God.

Perfect Blend

Azucena Milagros Ortiz Castillo

Azucena Milagros Ortiz Castillo, known better as the "Coffee Queen," is beloved for her innocent personality and her fearless fighting style as an MMA champion. The only daughter of the family who owns Ortiz Farm, a coffee plantation located 2000 meters above sea level, Azucena grew up observing her father's trade and dreamed of becoming the world's best coffee farmer. To make her dream come true, a young Azucena conducted countless experiments by cultivating new coffee plants based on her novel ideas. Although adults around her rejected her ideas time and again, Azucena used their rejection to motivate herself and continued to refine her daring spirit. A few years later, Azucena's efforts finally bore fruit, and her coffee beans were awarded the highest quality rating at a world-renowned trade fair, making her a rising star within the industry. Azucena continued to challenge herself using her positive thinking and ingenious ideas to pursue and achieve success both as a model and a dancer. She even studied business administration at the most prestigious university in the country. However, the caffeine coursing through her body led her to the conclusion that, in order to become the best in the world, one needs not only stability, but adventures as well. A plan suddenly clicked into place for her while she captured a runaway alpaca with one hand and held a cup of coffee in the other. She decided she would use her physical prowess earned from training at high altitudes to break into the American MMA scene and promote her eponymous "Azucena Blend." Her plan succeeded, and in her first year, Azucena rose to the top of the ranks as champion. All the while, she acted as a walking billboard for the Ortiz Farm, leading to a dramatic increase in the plantation's sales and popularity. As her next step forward, Azucena has turned her attention to The King of Iron Fist Tournament, which has emerged as the world's most popular fighting tournament in recent years. If she wins, Azucena will be that much closer to becoming best in the world. Although the date for the tournament remains undecided, Azucena is confident that that day is not far away. "My intuition never fails me!"

Shadow Agent

Raven

Codename: Raven. An agent and ninjutsu master, he is tasked with special ops missions for the UN's independent forces. Raven has engaged in missions all over the world, utilizing his ninjutsu to put a stop to conflicts before they even begin. However, the brutal power struggle between the Mishima Zaibatsu and G Corp threatens to bring the entire globe to its knees, and Raven only sees more chaos on the horizon. To face the challenges that lie ahead, he must continue to push past his limits. With this in mind, Raven sets out to train with his ninjutsu master once more. While the top brass admires Raven's resolve and accepts his request to go train, their approval comes with a condition: they will only cover his absence for half a year. Aiming to maximize his results in a limited time frame, Raven decides to focus on honing the arts he already excels at. Months pass, and he masters a new art, "Shadow Clone," just as he receives orders to return. Thus, Raven leaves the training grounds behind, anticipating the new battle that awaits him.

Mystic Stargazer

Zafina

Zafina is a warrior born into a family of exorcists whose lineage dates back to the time of ancient dynasties. In her day-to-day life, however, she uses her exceptional spiritual abilities to earn a living as an astrologist. Only a few months ago, the earth-shattering clash between the two evil stars, Jin Kazama and Kazuya Mishima, led to the resurrection of the original devil Azazel, an evil whom Zafina's family had kept sealed away for generations. Jin is able to defeat Azazel by the skin of his teeth, but Azazel's spirit is indestructible and survives. Now, it is only a matter of time before Azazel is resurrected once again. In order to delay Azazel's return for as long as possible, Zafina seals away Azazel's spirit in her left arm using her family's secret arts. However, Azazel's power is far beyond what even she could have foreseen, and the devil begins to wrest control of Zafina's body and soul away from her again and again. An exhausted Zafina arrives at Sirius Sanctuary, the headquarters of the Sirius Marksmen, in a last-ditch effort just before losing consciousness. When she awakens, she finds herself surrounded by Ling Xiaoyu, who is devotedly attending to her recovery, and Claudio Serafino, who is applying a holy seal to her left arm. Deeming them worthy of her trust, Zafina confesses all to them. In return, the two promise to spare no effort in aiding her whenever she needs it. Shortly after, while under the protection of the Sirius Marksmen, Zafina struggles to find a way to change their doomed fate. From the countless futures she's seen, though, there seems to be only one way out. However, that path would come at a great cost...

Counter-Punching Paragon

Steve Fox

Steve Fox is a middleweight boxing world champion whose ingenious technique and pace control in the ring have charmed countless audiences. Raised in a facility owned by the Mishima Zaibatsu, Steve went on a search for his real parents the moment he learned he was just a test subject. He encounters Nina Williams by chance and learns that he was made from her genetic material. Although they are mother and son by blood, Nina has never acknowledged Steve as her own. To Steve, knowing his roots was everything. Nina, on the other hand, believed such knowledge to be a mere inconvenience. The bell rings, wrapping up Steve's fight with his past. With his driving force in life gone, Steve becomes a husk of his former self. His training buddies Paul Phoenix and Marshall Law sense his desperation and come to his rescue. "If you have time to look so down, then you have time for a tournament! If any of us ends up on top, let's split the prize money evenly!" As he forces out a fake laugh at his friends' ridiculous words, Steve remembers that his fists hold the power to carve out a new future for him. Although grateful to his friends, Steve turns down their offer to train in the mountains like fighters of old and instead begins his own search for a brand-new fighting style. The bell for round two has just rung.

Alisa Bosconovitch

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN / Russia FIGHTINGSTYLE / Thruster-Based High-Mobility Fighting Style

Alisa Bosconovitch is an android built for the sole purpose of protecting Jin Kazama, the former head of the Mishima Zaibatsu. Designed to always abide by Jin's orders, Alisa's control over her own actions was temporarily overridden by her master, forcing her to engage in a battle to the death against Lars Alexandersson, despite her feelings for him. The battle caused her systems to shut down. However, thanks to the efforts of Lars and others, Alisa is miraculously rebooted and is now a member of the rebel army. Yet, Alisa noticed a worrying development. Information regarding Lars frequently interrupts her thought processes and causes her temperature to rise. Believing it to be a critical malfunction, Alisa begs her creator, Dr. Bosconovitch, to fix her. After a few weeks, she receives a major update and learns some surprising truths: There was no malfunction to be found. What's more, the function that Jin had used to control her—such as when he commanded her to fight Lars—no longer exists. "Go on, now. You are free. You may do as you like." Dr. Bosconovitch gives her a gentle smile, and for a moment, Alisa thinks she sees a faint resemblance to someone she once knew. She smiles back. As she flies home, she quietly makes a promise to herself: "This time around, I'll use my own free will... This time, I choose to fight at Lars's side."

Silver haired-Demon

Lee Chaolan

Raised in a harsh environment as Heihachi Mishima's adopted son, Lee Chaolan now manages the global humanoid manufacturer, Violet Systems. Lee carries with him a bitter hatred of both Heihachi and Kazuya Mishima, and when he first meets Lars Alexandersson—a man who stands in opposition of the Mishima Zaibatsu—he intends to use him as a pawn for his own revenge. However, Lee comes to sympathize with Lars's honest and excellent desire for peace. With the sincere intention of supporting Lars's plan, Lee teams up with him to form the rebel army "Yggdrasil" and begins working as a staff officer. Meanwhile, Kazuya leads G Corp and shows no sign of slowing his invasions, despite G Corp's defeat of the Mishima Zaibatsu. The world is being brought to its knees under a brutal wave of military rule. But Lee knows his adopted brother Kazuya inside and out, and he's started to fully use his knowledge and vast resources to develop a variety of weapons. With the help of the ingenious scientist Dr. Bosconovitch, he constructs the enormous flying boat, "Viðópnir," in addition to developing mobile warfare units using motorbikes. With these, the rebel army is able to start pushing back against G Corp in every region. Lee also invests in a next-gen battle suit perfect for close-range combat that will act as a trump card against the enemy's impenetrable armor. It is called the Violet Suit, a marvelous creation that utilizes sophisticated technologies and is equipped with numerous features that reflect Lee's own aesthetics. Lee struts onto the battlefield in this new armor, ready to take on whatever may come.

FIGHTINGSTYLE

Commando Sambo

Sergei Dragunov is a user of Commando Sambo and is feared for his alias "The White Angel of Death," a name he earned through his sheer and overwhelming combat prowess. While the world was embroiled in the armed conflict between the Mishima Zaibatsu and G Corp, Dragunov joined the King of Iron Fist Tournament with a certain goal in mind. However, midway through the tournament, the tournament's organizer, Heihachi Mishima, goes missing, bringing the competition to a halt. Dragunov returns home, and in recognition of his dedication to his work, is granted an extended leave for the first time in his life. Dragunov is known for his extreme work ethic—so much so that it is rumored he works even in his sleep. However, upon returning to his room, it's as if he has a spring in his step. In his study, Dragunov opens a safe and removes an ancient notebook with an eerie cover, which he begins to examine. The usually cold-hearted Dragunov seems to be in high spirits as he writes. From his unsettling manner, it is clear that it can only be one thing—a list known and feared as "The Angel of Death's List."...However, in reality, it is nothing more than a bucket list of things that Dragunov has been saving up to do when he finally gets some extended free time. While drinking a cup of homemade sbiten to warm himself, Dragunov reads over the notebook, humming a tune and nodding in apparent satisfaction. After reflecting upon his younger self, Dragunov chooses a task that will be particularly difficult to achieve. With that new aim in mind, he sets out to accomplish his goal.

Desert Falcon

Shaheen

Shaheen works for a private military firm and is investigating the mysterious death of his best friend. Utilizing his "peaceful" negotiation skills, he learns from an executive of the Middle East G Corp branch that the mastermind is none other than Kazuya Mishima. The wheel of fate must have been turning that day 13 years ago when, on the same day Shaheen lost his family, he saved Salim, a boy around the same age as him, from an assassin. It was the first time he had used the techniques his father had ingrained in him meant to bring down enemies to instead save another's life. Afterwards, Salim told him, "You should use such skills to become a shield for those in need." Then he took Shaheen's hands and welcomed him as his bodyguard. Salim came from the most prominent family in the area, and they did not think twice about taking Shaheen under their wing after he saved their precious son. Salim was bright and full of knowledge, while Shaheen excelled in fighting. The two grew up respecting one another, even as they followed their own paths. Salim became the head of an oil company, and Shaheen, a private military specialist. Yet even if their two paths had diverged, they could still work side by side under the same desire to protect the wealth and pride of others... Or, that's how it should have been. Instead, Shaheen now returns home to deliver news of the confession he'd pried from the G Corp executive regarding Salim's death to his family. The next day, just as Shaheen is about to depart, Salim's younger brother, Zarif, approaches him. "I want you to finish what my brother could not," Zarif says as he hands Shaheen a sword. It's his brother's treasured blade, one that Salim had carried with him wherever he went. Shaheen draws the keepsake from its sheath. Looking into its polished surface, he makes a vow to never forgive G Corp's tyranny.

Mechanized Space Ninja

Yoshimitsu

Yoshimitsu is an inheritor of the Manji Ninjutsu and current head of the Manji Clan, a group of chivalrous thieves active since the Sengoku period. Six months ago, Yoshimitsu accepted a request from an investor of the refugee relief project. The task was to find archives that contained information on the past doings of the Mishima Zaibatsu. After analyzing information that his clan members had gathered, Yoshimitsu is led to an old, underground cave. Legend has it that the Mishimas once used it for exorcisms. He scans the area using the technology built into his reinforced armor and continues down a dilapidated path. In the recesses of the cave, Yoshimitsu discovers the archives he has been looking for. Just then, the faint demonic aura that had been surrounding the archives resonates with Yoshimitsu's cursed blade and causes a wave of evil to surge forth. The Cursed Blade Yoshimitsu, passed down between heads of the Manji Clan for generations, is corrupted with an unquenchable bloodlust that eventually drives its wielder insane. In the blink of an eye, the blade infiltrates Yoshimitsu's mind and amplifies his desire for destruction. Yoshimitsu quickly stabs himself with the blade so he can feed its thirst, yet the blade becomes even more uncontrollable. After he returns, the clan elders teach Yoshimitsu how to suppress the cursed sword's malevolent will, even if only barely. Still, his cursed blade has called out to him ever since that day. "If the owner of the voice I hear is the source of the sword's uncontrollable nature, then I will cut it off at its root." Yoshimitsu's ally, Dr. Bosconovitch, provides him with the latest reinforced armor before sending him off on his journey out of Secret Manji Village to follow wherever his blade leads him.

Master of Salmon

Kuma

Kuma is Heihachi Mishima's pet and a member of the Mishima Zaibatsu's special forces, Tekken Force. He never misses the chance to volunteer in disaster relief efforts all across Southeast Asia. Locals are always reluctant to accept Kuma at first, fearing that he might attack them. But, with his playful nature and strong work ethic, Kuma gradually wins them over and becomes the town favorite. However, one fateful day, Heihachi left to settle the score with Kazuya Mishima, only to never be seen again. Kuma believes his master is still somewhere out there, but waits for his return to no avail. Meanwhile, G Corp is gaining the upper hand with their attacks against the Mishima Zaibatsu. Kuma bolts to the Mishima Zaibatsu building to provide backup. However, upon arriving, he realizes his chance to combat G Corp is long gone. The Mishima Zaibatsu leadership had surrendered, unable to wait any longer for Kuma. If Kuma lets the Zaibatsu be dismantled, then his master will have nowhere to come back to. And as Heihachi's loyal pet, that is the one thing he can not abide by. "I will continue fighting until Master Heihachi returns...even if it means I'm the last one standing!" In the spirit of Heihachi, Kuma trains to perfect his Mishima-style techniques. He dons the outfit and belt his master once wore, then begins his lonely fight. Several months pass, and Kuma—who had rescued Mishima Heavy Industries' elite engineers from the clutches of G Corp—has begun development on a secret weapon that is sure to change the game.

Panda

Panda doubles as both Ling Xiaoyu's pet and bodyguard. A short while after Jin Kazama, whom Xiaoyu has feelings for, goes missing, she sets off on a journey to find him, leaving her home only to never return again. Determined to uphold her duty of protecting Xiaoyu, Panda tracks her all the way to the Mishima Zaibatsu building. When she finds her, Xiaoyu informs her that she's successfully obtained Jin's search data and is going on a journey across the globe to follow after him. Shocked as she is by Xiaoyu's tenacity, Panda decides nevertheless to set off with her—after all, Xiaoyu deserves a vacation where she can enjoy all the sights and delicious cuisine the world has to offer. On their journey, Panda makes sure Xiaoyu is always looking her best by coordinating her outfits so that whenever she finally meets Jin again, she won't be embarrassed. After six months of traveling around the world and tracking down what few leads they have, however, any hope of finding Jin is fading fast. Even so, just as Xiaoyu refuses to give up out of her unwavering dedication to Jin, so too is Panda resolute in staying by Xiaoyu's side until the very end.

Refined Violence

Victor Chevalier

Enter Victor Chevalier, the living legend who founded the UN's independent forces. Descended from a lineage of distinguished knights, Victor has dreamed of rescuing those in need ever since he was a boy. Following in the footsteps of his father, a high-ranking naval officer, Victor enlists in the French Navy. Viewed as riding the coattails of his successful father by jealous peers Victor was sent into dangerous operating zones again and again. Still, thanks to the time he spent diligently training with his father's mercenary friend from the East, Victor is able to use his knowledge of combat to come back from every mission alive and victorious. Famous for his penny-pinching nature and the long list of broken hearts he's left in his wake, Victor leaves a trail of rumors and stories wherever he goes. Before he knows it, Victor earns himself the codename "Phantom Raven," and is looked upon with both fear and awe by others in the military. Victor leaves the Navy to join the UN, hoping to find a way to help even more people as well as explore new paths outside the constraints of working for the state. Soon, though, he begins to sense that the world is on the brink of being taken over by a corporate giant. In response, he starts securing the means needed to counter the corporation's private armed forces. In preparation for the coming upheaval, Victor exhausts all the means of negotiation he has available to him and succeeds in founding armed forces that have the authority to act at their own discretion. He directs the Raven Unit—an elite team he trained himself—to conduct special ops all over the world while in the meantime, he takes up the mantle as leader of the UN forces. Time passes, and the flames of G Corp's brutal military invasion have begun to engulf the world. Having foreseen such a future, Victor takes command of his new forces and readies himself for the fight. "We'd best hold the reins to the global balance of power." Armed with an haute couture suit from an established design house and the latest optical weapons, Victor, the living legend, retakes his place on the battlefield.

Indomitable Flash

Eddy Gordo

Eddy Gordo is a skilled capoeira user who has devoted half his life to honing his skills so he can exact revenge on Kazuya Mishima for his father's death. One day, his capoeira master falls victim to an incurable disease. With no one else to turn to, Eddy pleads for help from the current head of the Mishima Zaibatsu, Jin Kazama. Jin agrees, but in exchange for medical care for his master, Eddy must join the Tekken Force. Knowing full well the weight of the sins he will bear, he is left with no choice but to participate in the destructive missions. However, his master succumbs to the illness nevertheless, rendering his sacrifice in vain. Lost in despair, Eddy abandons the Tekken Force and heads for G Corp's Millennium Tower. There, he cuts through countless G Corp soldiers, making his way to the top. However, in the face of Kazuya's overwhelming power, Eddy is defeated. "Is this how my life is destined to end? Unable to exact vengeance or atone for my sins...?" These are Eddy's final thoughts as his world begins to fade to black...until Yoshimitsu drops in from the sky to rescue him from the brink of death. Eddy narrowly escapes with his life, and a short time later, Yoshimitsu helps him reunite with an unexpected figure from his past—someone he hasn't seen in ten years. This person, too, wants to see the world freed from Kazuya's tyrannical reign, and it is their words that convince Eddy to join forces with them. "No matter what hardships people face, they can always rise again." Bearing the weight of those words, Eddy puts himself on a grueling training regime to redeem his pride. With his master's teachings close to his heart and an unbridled love for the freedom capoeira gave him, Eddy hones his moves to new levels of proficiency. And after much meditation during his days of training, he comes to the realization that his abilities should not be used for revenge, but to save as many people as he can. This, he decides, is the best way to repay his father and master. And so, his journey of redemption begins.

FIGHTINGSTYLE

Mishima-Style Fighting Karate

Heihachi Mishima rightly earned his moniker the "King of the Iron Fist" after founding the Mishima Zaibatsu with its formidable private army and being feared worldwide for his countless acts of tyranny.

Heihachi waged a brutal war that divided the world in two with G Corp—led by his son who bore the devil gene, Kazuya Mishima.

At its culmination, Heihachi was defeated by Kazuya and thrown into a river of lava, leading the world to believe that he was truly dead..

Scarlet Lightning

Anna Williams

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN / Ireland

FIGHTINGSTYLE / Assassination Arts

Younger sister to Nina Williams, Anna Williams is breathtaking not only in her beauty but also her skills as a deadly former assassin, earning her the alias of "Scarlet Lightning." Six months ago, Anna was working as an operations strategist for G Corporation after putting her life as a professional killer behind her. It was there she met the love of her life, a G Corp executive. Soon thereafter, they were set to marry. But, on the day of her wedding, her husband-to-be was murdered by her sister Nina. To add salt to such a deep wound, Anna was also suddenly cut from her position at G Corp. Burning with a fierce hatred towards Nina, Anna put her old information network to work once more to uncover the truth behind this series of devastating events. To her surprise, she learned that her late fiancé had been colluding with a nefarious crime syndicate in secret. A true scumbag, through and through. "Was she trying to...protect me from him...?" It turned out that Nina had exterminated a pest Anna was unaware of. Regardless of whether this had been her sister's intention, Anna couldn't help but feel somewhat grateful. The feeling didn't last long, though. Soon after, word reached Anna that Nina had taken over her old position at G Corp. "I knew that sister of mine was a snake! At least now I can enjoy getting my sweet revenge." Fueled once again by the thirst for vengeance, Anna placed an order with genius weapon developer Dr. Nakamura to create something she could use to storm G Corp and take down Nina. What the doctor made for her was a compact weapon capable of transforming, allowing her to eliminate multiple targets at once with explosive firepower—a new friend she named "Lovely Tom." In order to work in perfect harmony with Tom, Anna completely overhauled her fighting style. "Just you wait, Nina. Lovely Tom and I will have you pleading for mercy on your knees before long."

Thunderstruck

Fahkumram

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN Thailand

FIGHTINGSTYLE Muay Thai

Fahkumram is a Muay Thai fighter who once dominated the scene undefeated and was considered one of Thailand's national heroes. One fateful day, he disobeyed the order of corrupt Thailand military officers to lose a match on purpose, which resulted in the military taking him into custody as well as detaining his wife and daughter as hostages. Since then, Fahkumram was forced to toil under the Thai military as their pawn. He was ordered to participate in The King of Iron Fist Tournament to crush the Mishima Zaibatsu. However, news of the death of the tournament organizer, Heihachi Mishima, halted the tournament. Following that, G Corporation, led by Kazuya Mishima, began tightening its grip on the world. And The King of Iron Fist Tournament was back on to determine the fate of the country. Although Fahkumram had no doubts that he would be forced to enter this tournament too, the military oddly did not give him orders to do so. The unsettling truth was that the Thai military leader, blinded with greed, formed a secret treaty with the Mishima Zaibatsu and had been accepting bribes. Under their supervision, Kuma was elected as the representative of the Southeast Asia/Oceania Block instead. "As long as the flames of war burn fierce in this world, I will allow your wife and daughter to live. After all, the longer conflict drags on, the fatter my pockets become thanks to the Mishima Zaibatsu!" Enraged after hearing about the selfish, vulgar plan, Fahkumram sets his resolve and proceeds down a path of no return to reclaim his sole purpose of living. "If my wife and daughter can live to see another day, then I won't waver to take another's life. I will become an avatar of the great Garuda!" Fahkumram somberly closes his eyes after being mounted into the military-developed breaching vehicle; Thailand's ultimate weapon is en route to the battlefield.

Dark Supernova

Armor King

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN Unknown

FIGHTINGSTYLE Pro Wrestling

The heel wrestler Armor King set foot into the ring of The King of Iron Fist Tournament 7 seeking to avenge his fallen elder brother. However, before he could sate his thirst for vengeance, fate intervened when the tournament's organizer suddenly vanished, leading to the tournament's cancellation. Soon after, the world was overtaken by G Corp's reign of terror. Unsure of when he'd get his next opportunity for vengeance, Armor King was forced to spend his days stewing in his own anger. Then, one day, King, the undisputed champion of pro wrestling, appeared before him. King, who had once been consumed by the very same desire for revenge, did everything in his power to stop him. However, his words fall on deaf ears. "Save your breath. I will have my revenge. No matter what." "If you insist to walk down this path...then you must get through me first! Show me your resolve in the ring!" Thus, the normally reticent King throws down the gauntlet, putting his life on the line to prevent his mentor's brother from continuing down the same foolish path of vengeance he had once followed. Armor King bore King no ill will. He had been a beloved apprentice to his older brother, after all. However, he could not let anyone stand in his way. I'll tear down the champion by any means necessary — it's all fair in my world. This... is the life of evil. And I live it to the fullest! Determined to lay King out, Armor King breaks the seal on a forbidden move that his brother had passed on to him in secret. Lying in wait for him on the other side of victory is the man he swore vengeance against, and Armor King will not fail his brother again.

Fighting God Reborn

Miary Zo

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN / Madagascar

FIGHTINGSTYLE

Morengy and other African Martial Arts

Miary Zo is affectionately known among the people in her village as the fighting god reborn, a reference to the Silver Fighting God of Madagascar legend. "When all the ancient baobab trees wither in a single breath, a child bearing the scarlet eyes of the fighting god shall be born." So prophesized the renowned fortune-teller (a Mpanandro), Miary Zo's grandmother. And indeed, when Miary Zo was born, she possessed eyes the color of glowing coals, as well as a deep fascination with nature and the wildlife that inhabits it. Her many days of observing animals and mimicking their movements led to an inevitable interest in martial arts and the ability to communicate through battle. Win or lose, she treated her opponents with respect, calling them her "BFF's, or "battle friends forever." With her cheerful and openhearted demeanor, she quickly made friends with professional fighters across the country and improved her fighting capabilities at a remarkable speed. It was not long before word spread all over the globe about Madagascar's second-to-none martial artist. Renowned fighters—especially those from mainland Africa—paid her a visit to see if she measured up. Miary Zo found joy in communicating through these battles. However, one fateful day six months ago, blue markings suddenly illuminated and decorated her body. Paired with an inexplicable fever, she fell to the ground unconscious. Several months passed before she finally awoke. When she did, her grandmother told her that she was the vessel of the Silver Fighting God and that the time had come for her to go out into the world. As if hearing her grandmother's words, a power greater than that she'd ever felt surged through her body, and two ring-tailed lemurs—animals said to be messengers of the Silver Fighting God—appeared at her side. Miary Zo tried to shoo them away, but they continued to shadow her every step. So, she named the pair "Vanilla" and "Cacao," then set out into the vast world that awaited her in search of new "BFF's, just as her grandmother's prophecy had foretold. "A whole wide world full of exciting people is out there! I can just feel it! Maybe I'll make a thousand 'BFF's!"

Enchanted Thief

Kunimitsu

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN / Japan

FIGHTINGSTYLE / Manji Ninjutsu

After accepting a mission from the Union of Nations forces that piqued her curiosity, the kunoichi Kunimitsu went undercover as a student at Mishima Polytechnical School in order to dig for information on the Mishima Zaibatsu. Kunimitsu played the part of an honor student well, earning the position of student council vice president in only her second year. With her new privileges, she stealthily obtained administrator access to the school's server where she began scouring data for the whole student body, person by person. While searching, she stumbled upon a student by the name of "Reina Yaotome," which she suspected was a pseudonym. At that exact moment, Reina appeared, almost as if she had been waiting for that moment. What are you sneaking around for, Miss Vice President? Or should I say "the infamous thief, Kunimitsu?" I'm not sure what you're talking about, Reina Yaotome... Or would you prefer, Reina Mishima? In the next instant, both girls had brought out their deadliest attacks, gauging each other's strengths. Ultimately they came to the unspoken conclusion that they could use one another. And so, the two would act as best friends—if only on the surface. In reality, both would walk on a knife's edge, each trying to uncover the other's next move. Before long, Reina proposed a deal: she would provide intel on the Kuatatzou—nine cursed blades into which the head of the Mishima clan had long ago sealed away powerful evil spirits—in exchange for confidential information on G Corp's forces. With a weakness for rare weapons, Kunimitsu couldn't help but accept. In exchange, she received an ancient document listing the location of the Kuatatzou. After decoding the script, Kunimitsu discovered a hidden path at the Mishimas' main estate (Hommaru), which had burned down one year prior. She followed it and was met by the sight of nine rusted odachi swords, each as tall as she was. Kunimitsu took the Kuatatzou and kept her end of the bargain, leaking G Corp's invasion plans to Reina. In order to restore the blades that had lost their luster, as well as learn a powerful new technique, Kunimitsu headed to the hidden ninja village where her father resided. Several months pass, and G Corp's forces wreak havoc on New York—just as Kunimitsu's intel said they would. Kazuya Mishima, the mastermind behind it all, declares that The King of Iron Fist Tournament will be held again. On the list of competitors, Kunimitsu spots a familiar name—Yoshimitsu, her mother's sworn enemy. After praying for her bedridden mother's quick recovery, she quietly leaves the village behind her, carrying with her both the Kuatatzou and the new technique she acquired. Please hold on a little longer, Mother. The cursed blade Yoshimitsu is mine for the taking.
